

How many sites are you looking to migrate to Drupal 9?

How many codebases do you have?

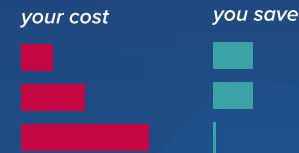

How many core/contributed modules do you have running?

Are you bringing over what you currently have to Drupal 9 or doing a major site revamp?

More or less what we have
 More or less what we have, with a new look and feel
 Completely re-envisioning the site from the ground up

How complex is your site's data model?

Simple: Only a handful of content types and fields
 Moderately complex: Several content types and fields, relationships between them
 Very complex: dozens of content types and fields, including "special" fields like geolocation

Is your site mainly using popular contributed modules, or lots of custom code?

Mainly popular modules
 A mix of popular modules, less popular modules, and custom code
 Almost all custom code

How are you feeling about your migration overall?

No problem, we got this!
 It's going to be challenging, but we have what we need to pull it off
 Wow, we could really use some help...

Great!
